Introduction

Already in the Codex Calixtinus, the oldest pilgrim guide (12th century), four main routes are indicated through France to Santiago de Compostela. One of them is the Vézelay Route ('Voie de Vézelay'). Hence the French subtitle: 'Voie historique' (historic road).

According to the Codex, pilgrims should at least visit these three saints on their journey: Mary Magdalene (Vézelay; the famous basilica is named after her), Frontus (Périgueux; a saint who was later forgotten) and Leonardus (of Noblat). The Codex also calls the latter: 'Sanctum Leonardum Lemovicensem' (Saint Leonard of Limousin). The Latin name of this pilgrim road is derived from this: Via Lemovicensis.

The route: overview

The Vézelay Route is approximately 900 km long. From Vézelay there are two main variants (see map):

- the northern variant via Bourges (1N)
- the southern version via Nevers (1Z).

These come together after almost 300 km in the village of Gargilesse.

The main variant via Nevers is 30 km longer than that via Bourges. You can halve this difference if, leaving Nevers, you choose the shortcut via Augy-sur-Aubois to Ainay-le-Château.

If you like culture, the variant via Bourges may be more interesting (in particular: Charité-sur-Loire and Bourges).

If you like nature, you might prefer the Nevers variant, which is more undulating and varied.

This guide describes both main variants. Furthermore, a variant has been described from Périgueux via Bergerac to Sainte-Foy-la-Grande.

The road: marking

In 2011, new agreements were made about the marking of pilgrim roads in France, by a yellow shell on a blue background and by a double marking in the same colors, following the methodology of the GR ® walking routes (see image).

Straight ahead

Turn right

Wrong direction

The shell does not indicate any direction; the 'point' must always be on the left.

All 'old' markings have been or will gradually be replaced.

Please note: the Gironde department (part 4 on the map) uses its own system. There the yellow shell on blue background is used in combination with other markings.

From Sault-de-Navailles (part 6 on the map), the yellow-blue markings are no longer used. Follow there the red and white markings of the GR.

In large(r) cities along the way you will often find an additional marking, in the form of bronze shells, on the sidewalk or road surface.

The Vézelay Route is well marked, but when leaving Vézelay it is advisable to pay extra attention:

- The split of the variants via Nevers and via Bourges is clearly indicated on the spot, but still . . .
- Variant via Nevers: in Saint-Père in particular (2.5 km from Vézelay) and in Pierre-Perthuis (8 km), different routes cross, including: local walking routes (marked in yellow), the GR 13 (marked in red-white), a pilgrim's route from Eastern France (marked with shells) and the Pilgrim's Way of Vézelay. The latter is well marked (yellow-blue, sometimes with the addition of 'Voie Historique'), but still . . .

The route: concurrence with the GR654

The Vézelay Route regularly crosses the GR654, which also goes from Vézelay to Saint-Jean-Pied-de-Port. The GR® hiking trails (red-white marking) prefer the small paths, even if that means: (a lot) more kilometers. This is also the case on this route, although there are exceptions. Example: the shortcut from Nevers mentioned above (under 'overview'), via Augy-sur-Aubois, to Ainay-le-Château, which follows almost entirely the GR654.

You will regularly encounter the GR654 on the following sections:

- Vézelay - La Charité-sur-Loire (Bourges variant);
- Nevers - Gargillesse (Nevers variant);
- Gargillesse - Périgueux;
- Périgueux - Bergerac - Sainte Foy-la-Grande (variant).

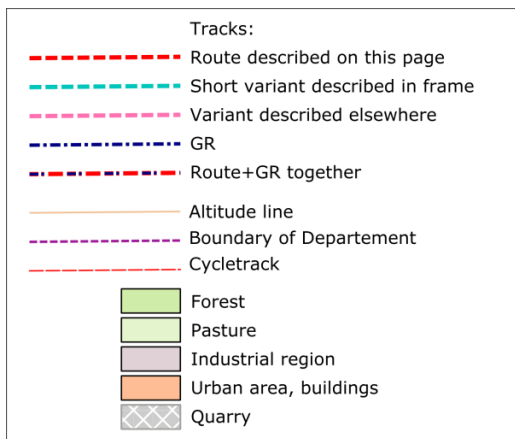

From Sainte-Foy (= section 4), the Vézelay Route and the GR 654 generally concur. Sometimes the GR makes a small detour, where the Vézelay Route follows the shorter alternative. From Captieux, the Pelgrimsweg and the GR 654 run straight up.

Anyway: the concurrence (or not) of the Vézelay Route and the GR 654 (or, sometimes, another GR) is indicated on the maps.

The guide: directions and maps

The route descriptions and the corresponding maps are presented opposite each other. The place names in bold in the route description are also mentioned on the maps.

Each map shows two numbers (in circles) that indicate the beginning and the end of the corresponding description. In the description, these numbers are shown between [ ] and bold.

Not in the guide: facilities (accommodation, shops, restaurants, etc.)

The route hardly changes, while experience has shown that there are relatively many changes concerning the facilities.

That is why the facilities are not included in this guide, but in a separate, free-to-download PDF document (and in the form of KML and GPX files: see below).

The overview of facilities is linked to the guide: it uses the same layout (stages and distances) and the same symbols.

You can download the most recent overview here: click here

You can print the file and / or take it along on your smartphone or tablet. Check if you have the latest version before setting off (or on your way)!

Facilities: symbols

The overview of symbols below refers to the regularly updated and downloadable PDF document with the facilities.

Pilgrim shelter
	Home hospitality for pilgrims ('Accueil pèlerin à domicile')
	Pilgrims hostel ('refuge pèlerin')
	Hospitality by a church/religious organization ('accueil et hébergement religieux')
Other accommodation
	Hotel or B&B ('chambres d'hôtes')
	Holiday house ('gîte')
	Youth hostel ('auberge de jeunesse') / Accommodation for young workers ('foyer de jeunes travailleurs (FJT)')
	Camp site ('camping')
Accommodation: extras
	Dinner possible at location
	Wifi
Other facilities
	Tourist Office ('Office de Tourisme')
	Train station ('gare SNCF')
	Café / Bar / Restaurant
	Shop(s)
	Post Office / Agency
	Picnic bench / place
	All facilities

Donativo: a 'donativo' is often requested for pilgrim accommodation. That is a gift, a voluntary contribution. Your contribution can also provide accommodation for the pilgrims who come after you.

Reservation: if the 'extra information' about an accommodation indicates 'reserve', then generally this means: 24 hours in advance. Sometimes a longer period applies, which is then specified.

KML / GPX files: route and services

In addition to the PDF document mentioned, there are KML-/GPX-files for the facilities and the route. These files can be used in Google Earth and via various apps for your smartphone.

You can download the KML / GPX files here: click here

Guide: making of

The Vézelay Route is supported by five regional Confraternities of Saint James:

L'Association des Amis et Pèlerins de Saint-Jacques de la Voie de Vézelay section 1 : Vézelay > Crozant

Amis et Pèlerins de Saint-Jacques de Compostelle du Limousin-Perigord section 2 : Crozant > La Coquille
section 3 : La Coquille > Sainte-Foy-la-Grande

L'Association des Amis de Saint-Jacques de Compostelle en Aquitaine section 4 : Sainte-Foy-la-Grande > Gare du Poteau

Société Landaise des Amis de Saint-Jacques et d'Etudes Compostellanes section 5 : Gare du Poteau > Sault de Navailles

Association «Les amis du chemin de Saint-Jacques / Pyrénées-Atlantiques» section 6 : Sault de Navailles > Saint-Jean-Pied-de-Port

These Confraternities can be reached via: <http://www.voiedevezelay.eu/en>

They mark and describe the route. They administer overviews of accommodation and other facilities. And they manage websites, information points and a dozen pilgrim hostels.

However, their information is almost entirely in French. That is why it was decided to make the Dutch guide and this English version. The first edition appeared in January 2015. In addition to the working group, Daniel Dierickx, Annette Knobbe and Karline Vandenbroecke contributed to it.

For this latest edition (2020) we could again use information from the French Confraternities of Saint James and now also dozens of tips from pilgrims who walked this route.

You too can make an important contribution by communicating changes and errors that you discover along your way, via:

- sending an e-mail to: vezelay@santiago.nl
- the feedback button in the KML or GPX file.

Thanks in advance!

The working group:

Wobien Doyer, Han Lasance, Klaas Mors and Arno Cuppen.
